

Test 7

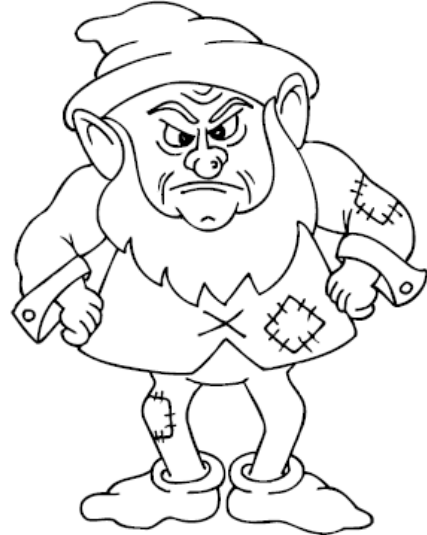

You, yes you, can unlock the meaning of hundreds of words by knowing the meaning of base words and prefixes.

Directions: The prefix un means "not." Read the story, then add the un prefix to the underlined words to change the meaning of the story. Finally, read the story again.

It sounds amazing and a bit ___real, but this tale has been passed down from a very long time ago. I am ___certain where it came from, but it does not make me ___happy to tell it again to you. So here goes.

In a land far away there was an ___happy, ___grateful, and altogether cranky troll named Rolf. He hated just about everything! He thought all rules were ___necessary and that school was boring. He thought all the other troll children and even his teacher were ___friendly. He even hated recess! One day at recess the troll children were picking teams for kickball. They had an ___equal number of players on each team. Of course, the only troll not on a team was Rolf. So the troll children ___easily asked ___kind and ___predictable Rolf to join their team. Well, the rest, as they say, is history. That day Rolf brought in the winning run for his team. Rolf changed from an ___lucky and ___loved little troll into a happy and friendly troll.

It sounds amazing and a bit unreal, but this tale has been passed down from a very long time ago. I am uncertain where it came from, but it does not make me unhappy to tell it again to you. So here goes. In a land far away there was an unhappy, ungrateful, and altogether cranky troll named Rolf. He hated just about everything! He thought all rules were unnecessary and that school was boring. He thought all the other troll children and even his teacher were unfriendly. He even hated recess! One day at recess the troll children were picking teams for kickball. They had an unequal number of players on each team. Of course, the only troll not on a team was Rolf. So the troll children uneasily asked unkind and unpredictable Rolf to join their team. Well, the rest, as they say, is history. That day Rolf brought in the winning run for his team. Rolf changed from an unlucky and unloved little troll into a happy and friendly troll.
